Democratic and Republican Countries—TAXES Contributed to the Support of the State Government.

The State Journal, the Radical organ at Montgomery, has for the past few weeks been harping with unceasing upon the fact that some of the poorer counties, which give Democratic majorities, do not contribute as much revenue to the support of the State Government as some of the richest counties it names, which return Radical majorities.

To make its proposition more striking, the Radical organ takes such small counties as Clay, Jefferson and Crenshaw for Democratic examples, and opposes these with such large and wealthy counties as Perry, Montgomery and Dallas for Radical examples, the last named two having the second and third cities in population and wealth in the State.

It might spoil somewhat the figures of the Radical paper, if it were to take two among the wealthiest and most populous of the Democratic counties of the State for example on our side, and add to these the Democratic county of Mobile, which alone pays one-fifth of the revenue of the entire State, but it forms no part of the programme of the Journal to overstate any question fairly. But aside from this offset, which the Democrats could fairly offer under the argument of the Journal, the Democrats have all the advantage; for even in the Republican counties, so vauntingly brought forward by the Radical paper, the Democrats pay almost entirely the large revenue boasted of. In the city of Montgomery, for instance, who pays the largest amount of the revenue that goes to the support of the State Government—the hordes of vagabond negroes that go to make up nine-tenths of the Radical party; or the white gentlemen of that city, who alone and entirely go to make up the Democratic party within its corporate limits? Or to take a Democrat and white Radical and individual, who pays the more taxes. Dr. Lee Grand, Democrat, or Probate Judge Ely, that model Radical who, according to the late report of the Grand Jury, has paid no taxes for five years?

No, the Journal can take no comfort from its own figures; for it is the Democrats at last who support the State Government, by contribution of taxes from all the counties of the State, Democratic or Republican. Measured by the amount of taxes contributed to the support of the State Government by the members of each political party, respectively there would be no Radical county in the State, nor even enough Radicals, white and black, all put together, to form a respectable heat in the poorest county of the commonwealth.

Home Manufactures.

It will be seen by reference to the advertisement of Mr. R. H. Coleman, that he is making a specialty of Carriages, Buggies, &c., as well as heavier work. Mr. Coleman has been now among us enough to prove all his promises true, relative to neat, durable and cheap work. We are glad to learn that his patronage is liberal and increasing. We as a people profess a desire to encourage domestic manufacturers. There is branch in which we can prove our sincerity, and at the same time promote our own interest and convenience. When you want work, don't send your money to a distance, but call upon Coleman.

We direct special attention the advertisement of Winters & Nelson, Chattanooga, Tenn. This house is highly recommended. Mr. Winters, the firm, is known to most of our citizens and is frequently, in our midst. It will be very convenient to order through him.

We have asked some of our county officers to prepare for us, from the official record, a condensed report of the new debt made and the amount of the old debt paid off, by the present court of County Commissioners, together with other interesting facts connected with the administration of the affairs of the county. As the work involves a good deal of labor, we have not been able to get it up before this. But next week we hope to be able to lay it before our readers, that all may read and draw therefrom their own impartial conclusion. If it be found in the light of this report, that any man has been censured justly by any citizen of the county, then by all means let the censure rest; but if it be found on the contrary, that any of our people have been too hasty in making up their judgement upon any of our county officials, and that injustice to any one has been the consequence, then in the name of fair play, let such judgment be reversed and full and exact justice meted to each and all as they may deserve.

HER FATAL VICE.

FISH CULTURE.—Last season one of the editors of this paper excavated a hole in the ground on his premises, some 20 feet wide, 30 feet long and from 2 to 4 feet deep, brickled and cemented it, and turned in the water upon it from the iron pipes, which convey water from the mountain over our town. This was designed for a fish pond, more ornamental than useful. Of course the experiment was viewed in different lights by different people. Some said the water would become impregnated with the cement and kill the fish. Others said that the cement would do no harm, but that the iron in the water, gathered from the iron pipes, would kill the fish. Others yet said that fish put into the pond would live, but would not increase. The experiment had to be tried to see who was right. Fish from the streams near town (mostly trout) were caught with seines and about 300 put in. For a long time they were very shy, but finally grew tame and fed well, and grew with astonishing rapidity. Some days ago thousands upon thousands of young fish appeared upon top of the water and are now doing "as well as could be expected." This demonstrated the fact that fish can be raised in every flower yard of our town, at comparatively no expense, adding beauty and interest to the same. That ornamental ponds supplied from the water works can be made very useful, is now beyond question. In a season or two more he can be able to divide with his neighbors.

VILLAGE GOSSIP.

As one of the improvements of our ever growing village, it would not do to omit to mention the city seals recently put up by that public-spirited citizen, Mr. R. P. Weaver. Therefore we may expect to get a full ton of coal when we buy a ton, for we will no longer be compelled to take it at a guess.

The Episope and Congregation have added another very decided improvement by placing new paling around their house of worship.

Fayre Whisenant is preparing to add another improvement in the shape of the highest hotel sign ever seen in the civilized portion of the globe, or that has ever entered into the heart of men to conceive of. Painters are now engaged on the pole which is already on the ground. Some jocular remarks have been made concerning this pole, but it does not disturb the equanimity of "mine host." He denies that it is either a mammoth harber pole gotten up for Garrett, or that it is a May pole, around which he will have a war dance on the first, or that it is a liberty pole from whose apex he will fling to the balcony to invest the group who watched at the bedside of the dead woman. Her clothing, of fashionale make and costly material, bore evidence of where she had lain, and was gathered about her in unfeigned fondness. The attendants, and while some went to give information to the authorities, some remained behind to provide for the tomb. She is said to have been a lady of unbounded virtues, all of which were neutralized by the one unmitigated practice, which left the entire community in despair.

Carroll is adding still another very decided improvement in the entire renovation of the old, Kalin Corner. Space being limited, he has built his stables under ground.

To return to the hotel. The sign pole came very near being a useless piece of property some nights ago. The hotel came near being burned up. While the young gentlemen of Prof. Robinson's dancing class were tripping the light fantastic toe in the hall, a large lamp at the door of the hall gave premonitory symptoms of getting on a "burst." Here was a fix. The door was the only place of exit. Every fellow thought the old thing might go off just as he was passing under it, and so all hope of escape being cut off, every fellow suddenly had a call to the other end of the hall. At last Wallace W., a spectator, "went for it" with his hat, clapped the same over the chimney and knocked it to the floor like a wasp. Den P. instantly shed his coat and "covered" it. A little struggle, a small outburst, and all was darkness. Upon striking a light, the extent of the calamity was found to be a burnt hat, a greasy coat, and three or four young fellows who had so lost the use of their limbs that they couldn't come the polka any more that night.

That inquest at John's was a very serious thing. He received a barrel marked cinder, but it tasted more like something else. He determined upon an inquest and sent for Justice E. That officer had Dr. A. W. C. L. Jim F., and Den P. summoned. After careful examination and a long sitting, the body was declared to be what older Mr. Thomas and Mr. E. Y. Clarke, in regard to what occurred at this supper party, the Atlanta Herald says:

Governor Vance alluded to the superior condition of Georgia over her confederate sisters as remarkable, and while much gratified with the fact, he did not understand how this state of things was brought about.

One of Uncle Billy Laird's MOCKINGBIRDS is dead. He had two of them. He called one "Wheeler" and the other "Wilson," because neither of them was a Singer.

We direct special attention the advertisement of Winters & Nelson, Chattanooga, Tenn. This house is highly recommended. Mr. Winters, the firm, is known to most of our citizens and is frequently, in our midst. It will be very convenient to order through him.

The communication of an esteemed friend living in Talladega county is necessarily laid over until next week it having arrived after the form was imposed, (Friday morning.)

Marshal Pruitt requests us to say that next Thursday week has been set as the time for clearing off the cemetery. It hoped there will be a large turn out.

Fashionable Tailoring.

We are much gratified to learn that Mr. Wm. Jackson is giving entire satisfaction to his patrons, and that his patronage is constantly increasing. We hope it may soon be sufficient to enable him to keep a number of hands employed, and thus prevent thousands of dollars from going out of our country, to build up and enrich Northern cities.

Don't forget when you need clothing that you can get it at home, made up in a neat and substantial manner, in the most fashionable style, out of material of your own selection.

PLANTATIONS.

Plantations, factories, work-shops, and all places where large numbers of hands are employed, should never be without the Magic Arms Liniment. For families it is invaluable. Bruises, sprains, hurts, wounds and injuries are rapidly cured by it, and the pain subdued at once.

THE GEM MICROSCOPE.

Fish Culture.—Last season one of the editors of this paper excavated a hole in the ground on his premises, some 20 feet wide, 30 feet long and from 2 to 4 feet deep, brickled and cemented it, and turned in the water upon it from the iron pipes, which convey water from the mountain over our town.

On yesterday morning, about 8:30 o'clock Officer Konz had his attention attracted by the suspicious appearance of a seemingly immature object, prostate and fulvous in the yard, attached to a house at No. 2911 Larue street. He watched it for an instant, and though inclined to disregard his suspicion, yet there was something so strangely human-like about it, that he was persuaded to enter the premises and ascertain its character. As he approached the spot where the object was, he became satisfied of the presence of a human being, and upon reaching the point where it lay, he recognized the features of Mrs. Mary E. Hayne, the occupant of the house enclosed in the water, and the portion of the house which was about a mile and a half wide and reached several miles into Butte county. The terrible lightning in this cloud was witnessed by people on the plateau in Yuba county and in the central portion of this county. The thunder was heard twenty miles distant.

Violent Storm in the East—Heavy Snow Fall—Drifts to the Depth of Twenty Feet.

Boston, April 25.—A severe snow-storm, accompanied by a heavy gale, has prevailed throughout the New England States to-day. The snow is from six inches to a foot in depth. At Rockland the gale has been the severest experienced for years, and resulted in much damage to shipping—six or seven vessels are aground. Twenty inches of snow are reported at Dauberry, Conn.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., April 26. The storm of yesterday and last night at Boston Corners was terrible, and heavier than known before for years. The Hudson mail train was compelled to lay at Millerton for fear of being blown from the rails. At Weissman's Cut the snow was allowed to remain until yesterday morning undisturbed. Alabama, Alabama;
Once the home of the brave and bold
Land of valor's noblest offspring—
Alabama—Here we rest.

Alabama; Alabama;
Once of states, thou wort the best,
Once so proud were we to claim thee—
Alabama—Here we rest.

Alabama; Alabama;
Sorrow crowns thy noble crest,
But our hopes still round thee cluster—
Alabama—Here we rest.

Alabama; Alabama;
Tyrants, now thy fields infest,
But e'er long we'll drive them from thee—
Alabama—Here we rest.

A Good Yield of Corn.

A farmer of Virginia gives an interesting account of the method he pursued to secure a yield of corn in Smyth county. He began on a very poor farm in 1859, of which he devoted sixteen and a half acres to corn. The yield was small. In 1866 he again planted in corn, with much better results. The tract was then turned over to grass, and mowed and pastured up to the winter of 1871-'72. At this time manure from the barn was spread on the thinnest parts, and during the winter the field was plowed to the depth of ten or twelve inches, after which slacked lime to the amount of 80 bushels per acre, was applied and the land harrowed five times, thoroughly mixing lime and soil. About May 1st the corn planted in rows, two and a half feet apart. When it came up about one bushel of plaster per acre was spread, and the space between the rows was thoroughly plowed to the depth of twelve or thirteen inches. It was then thinned, leaving two stalks to a hill; replanting was done and cutting "trash" from the hills with the hoe; no other work with this implement was done. From the 20th to the 27th of June plowed with broad shovels, and afterwards with the long coulter-plow; thoroughly erased all traces of the shovel except at the hill. In September, from 10th to 15th, cut up and shocked; and in December cribbed. Yield from the 16½ acres, 1,500 bushels, or an average of 90-11 bushels per acre. Some acres of the field yielded as high as 125 bushels. Corn planted, white gourd seed; soil, a clay loam, very well adapted to blue-grass, when in an impeded condition.

A Saloon Keeper is Struck with Death in the Midst of a praying Band.

Mrs. Luther Hills, the leader of a praying band, furnishes the following particulars of the strange death of a saloon keeper named Simpson, of East Douglas, Mass. He was taken suddenly ill during a visit of the praying band at his saloon, and died a few hours after. The following is an extract from Mrs. Hills' letter in the Worcester Gazette:

"We went into Mr. Simpson's saloon. I shook hands with him and introduced the ladies, and spoke of our coming in love and kindness to talk with him about his business. After some conversation he was asked if he would not refrain from selling liquor; he said, 'I cannot promise to; then being asked if he thought it right, he replied, 'just as right as to sell groceries.' I then said, 'let us see what the word of the Lord says' opening to 1st Cor. 6:10, I read, 'Nor thieves, nor conveutons, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortors shall inherit the kingdom of God.' He replied, 'I knew it before, but that does not include me.' The reply was we did not expect to bring anything new, only to call to remembrance. You said it was right to sell, but this suits all who use it out of the kingdom of heaven, and you don't want to be shut out Mr. S. Then turning to Heb. 2:15; Woe to him that giveth his neighbor drink, that putteth thy bottle to him and maketh him drunk also. Then to Dout. 59:19; I shall have peace, though I walk in the imagination of mine heart, to add drunkenness to thirst; the Lord will not spare him, but then the anger of the Lord and his jealousy shall smite against that man and all the curses that are written in this book shall lie upon him, and the Lord shall blot out his name from under heaven.

On looking up, his eyes were riveted on mine, and he was very much agitated, trembling exceedingly. No further words were given us to say; we were all spellbound for what seemed a long time. At length one of the ladies said to his partner, 'I think something is the matter with him.' No movement was made until urged the second time. He was then removed from the counter by which he was supporting himself, when his tongue seemed to be loosed and he cried out twice, 'O God, have mercy on my soul.'

He was then taken to a room back; we were about to retire when another cry for mercy arrested our attention, those who were with him begging us to stay and talk with him, both saying it was the Holy Spirit. I said it was the word of the Lord, sharper than any two edged sword. Comforting words quieted his agitation. His mind was clear, but he could not talk. He was soon taken home, and died about eleven hours after."

New Orleans, April 15.

The water is over the levee at the head of Orange street, and over a foot deep on the Mobile railroad track from Jefferson street to the lower end of the French market. McCullum's and the Bonet-Carre Crevasses are both regarded beyond control. Nothing is likely to be done with them until the river falls ten or fifteen feet.

Mr. Kellogg to-day addressed a circular to all the police juries in the river parishes, saying the exigencies were beyond all provided means to control the threatening overflow and advising them to go to work, build up and protect the levees in their respective parishes, promising to recommend the new Legislature to reimburse the parishes for the money expended. The State authorities have also advanced to the levee company which by the act of the Legislature creating it, is a monopoly of levee building in Louisiana, thirty thousand dollars in advance of the collections on this year's levee tax to help them to meet the emergency.

MEMPHIS, April 18.—The heavy rains for the past few days have not only been destructive to the planting interest but with the heavy floods in various rivers hampering to the different railroads centering here.

FROM INDIANA.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 24.—At a meeting of workmen last night resolutions were unanimously adopted thanking Senator Morton and the representative who supported the interests of the Western State in the recent financial debate and action in Congress, and urging them to give no consent to an adjournment of Congress until some satisfactory financial relief be granted.

FROM MASSACAUSETTS.

SPRINGFIELD, April 24.—Flags were displayed church bells rang and a salute fired at Pittsfield and a salute fired at Pittsfield yesterday, in honor of the President's induction veto.

BOSTON, April 24.—George Markland, a printer, committed suicide last night, by taking laudanum. His wife recently drowned herself in a well.

FROM NEW YORK.

NEW YORK April 24.—Subscriptions at the Cotton Exchange for the Louisiana flood sufferers now reach four thousand dollars.

FROM ILLINOIS.

The steamer Minneola which arrived here yesterday from Memphis, picked up some families who had taken refuge on rafts and dugouts in order to escape from their flooded homes. Their live stock either drowned or dying of starvation, and say that many families residing so far from the channel to reach it, will either be drowned or starved to death.

NEW ORLEANS, April 23.

A letter from a planter in Carroll parish says that there will be 27 plantations in that parish that will make no cotton at all, eleven that may make a half crop, and 29 that are good for a full crop.

The water from Bonnet Carré and McCallen Crevasses has overflowed Grand Point settlement, St. James parish, forcing many to leave their houses and seek protection in other localities. Engineer Vaupel of the Levee Co., reports the crevasses at Hickey's tyond control. It is fully a quarter of a mile wide and about ten feet deep. Mr. Hickey's residence is stony frame, with eight rooms was taken up by the flood and carried to the back part of the plantation where it lodged against some trees. Almost entire of West Baton Rouge, and whole of parish of Iberville lying on right bank Mississippi river appears to be under water.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The Secretary of War in a communication to the House to-day, says no commissary stores can be spared from military stations on the lower Mississippi. After a verbal conference between the President and the Secretary of War, the Commissary General was directed to prepare 50,000 rations of meal, flour and beans, which will feed 30,000 people for twenty days. The Secretary of War asks $90,000 for these rations from Congress.

MONROE, LA., April 24, 6 p. m. It is impossible to give an idea of the extent of the overflow. The water is higher than ever known before. The town is an island 2½ miles long by one-half mile wide, from which there is no exit except by boats or swimming. From the crossing of Railroad and Desards streets back is one wide sea. Boats come and go from Oakley's People living in the rear have been driven in; all vacant houses have been taken and several families are living in the courthouse. Business is almost completely suspended, but houses are open. Fully 1,000 people have not rations for three days nor money to buy with. Stock of every description gathered in town are starving. On Desard Island almost all plantations are under water.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Secretary Richardson goes to Charleston, Savannah and other coast towns by steamer, in search of health.

Ayer's Catgut Pills.

For all the purposes of a Laxative Medicine.

Perhaps no one medicine is so generally required by every body as a cathartic, nor is any universally adopted into use, is every classed as a purgative, and this mild but efficient purgative is the best. The reason of this is that it is a more reliable and far more safe.

It is well known that those who have tried it, know that it cures their neighbors and friends at a distance, and that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not be afraid to use it in any case. It is a safe and reliable medicine.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal vessels to purify the blood and other secretions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to their natural and proper arrangement as are the first origin of disease.

Minute doses are given in the wrapped on the side of the box, and the following are the directions:

A TRUE STORY OF THIRTY YEARS AGO.
[From the Louisville Courier-Journal.]

About 30 years ago there came to this city a stranger, young girl in her teens, who gave her name as Lizzie Carlton. Nothing more was known of her than that she was accompanied hither by a young man who was, or pretended to be, deaf and dumb, and who left at once after aiding her in obtaining a situation in the establishment of a Mrs. Williams, a milliner and dressmaker on 4th street, nearly opposite the spot where Banker's New York store now stands.

Lizzie was a handsome brunette, with a wealth of raven hair which swept the floor, with bright, expressive eyes, and, altogether, gentle and dignified in her general appearance. From her ladylike deportment and close attention to the interests of her employer, she was soon made superintendent of the establishment. The social lines were not so strongly marked and scrupulously guarded then as now, and hence the young and beautiful stranger was soon received into the best company—forming a number of friends outside of her business circle, among others a Mrs. E., a prominent member of the Baptist church, at whose house Lizzie was a frequent visitor. She, in time, attached herself to that church and became a most exemplary member.

During her visits to Mrs. E.'s she met Philip Slaughter, himself one of the pillars of the church, who, after living in single blessedness for years, enjoying his wealth and family station alone, soon conceived a tender sentiment for the young and lovely sister. Old bachelors are considered public property in so far that a lively public interest is always manifested in their matrimonial welfare, and hence it was not long after the match makers put their heads together until the twain were made one. The marriage ceremony was performed at the Baptist church, then standing on the southwest corner of Fifth and Green streets, Rev. Mr. Buck officiating. The happy bride and groom, accompanied by a number of their brothers and sisters, repaired to the residence of Mr. Slaughter, about 10 miles from the city, to partake of the usual festivities.

The honey moon witnessed a mutual growth of admiration between the two, and not only the honey moon, but several other moons, waxed and waned, and waned, and dipped with honey "sweeter than the honey comb."

Alas! that man's avarice and brutality should break in to mar and destroy a scene of happiness like this!

About sunset one evening the doorbell rang. Lizzie—now Mrs. Slaughter—left her husband's bedside (he was confined to his bed by a slight illness at this time) arranged her toilet, and descended to the parlor.

One piercing scream, that startled the echoes and shook the rafters roused Mr. Slaughter, and he rushed down stairs. What was his astonishment and dismay when he found his bride fainting on the floor, and a strange gentleman attended by a policeman, bending over her.

"Sir," said the stranger, "this woman is my slave. Her name is Malinda Cass. I am a Mississippian—here is the bill of sale. I bought her a few months before she escaped from my home. I have been on her track for a long time; and now she must return with me."

The distress of this unfortunate couple drew, at once, a large concourse of their friends, who were as much at a loss what to advise in the midst of these strange revelations as were those most deeply concerned. The husband, after the first paroxysm of his grief had subsided, vowed eternal fidelity to his wife, bond or free and with the assistance of Deacon Elliott, Rev. Mr. Buck, and others, it was arranged that, to quiet matters, the stranger should be indemnified for the loss of his slave, and a little party of friends met at the Galt House, where the Mississippian received $700 for compensation and returned home.

But Mr. S. being a rather feeble minded and easily influenced man, was so beset by his relatives that he abandoned his wife, as they could not tolerate one in such relation as that, who had one drop of African blood in her veins, however concealed beneath a fair exterior. He turned the poor woman into the street, and she, broken hearted, went from place to place in the capacity of a seamstress, soon after giving birth to a son. She managed to support herself and child, and to bear up under all her misfortunes until Mr. S. married another. She at once took to her bed, was kindly attended by the sisters of charity and a few of the Baptist sisters in this city, until she died of a broken heart.

Mr. Elliott went South to learn the true statement of her history but the reports there were as conflicting as they had in the meantime come to be here.

Lizzie Carlton persisted to the last that she was a pure Circassian, a free woman. She related that her mother, a Portuguese, on reaching this country, being a dark brunette, formed the acquaintance of a wealthy planter in New Orleans who became so infatuated with her that he took her to his home, and to conceal his purposes from his wife, got her consent to pass her as his servant—her appearance enabling her to assume the character of a bright mulatto. Lizzie was the offspring of this illicit strategy, and this planter, dying suddenly, and without disclosing the true character of his mistress, who herself died soon after. Lizzie, while quite a child, descended to the heirs of the estate, and the estate becoming involved, she was sold to a stranger—the same who afterwards visited Louisville in search of his property. She further stated that the gentleman who brought her here was her half brother—the son of her mother's seducer—and that she fled to escape the persecutions of her purchaser, who persisted in soliciting favors which her womanly virtue could not tolerate.

A few pained and more blamed the unfortunate woman for imposing herself, as they called it, on this community.—But time has mellowed the harshness of the sentiment which was then prevalent and made unanimous the opinion that her story was true in all respects. The oldest inhabitants of Louisville now declare their belief that she was indeed the daughter of a Portuguese woman; that she was altogether gifted with splendid virtues, and was the innocent victim of the strategy of her parents, and was, of course, as much entitled to the rights of a free woman as any one who walks Fourth street to day. Her father's and mother's sudden death was the cause of her woes; even her ostensible owner was ignorant of her true history. How terribly, in this instance, were the sins of the parents visited upon the child.

Poor, heart broken woman! A little grave in the western cemetery of this city has set upon her lips the seal of everlasting silence and it is meet, now that time, which sooner or later works its reavenges and grants that justice which was withheld, that the true story of her life should be written—that the cloud which enshrouded her son, if he is living to-day, may rest no longer under the false imputation of having been born a slave.

Soon after the death of Philip Slaughter, his relatives sent the boy referred to above to Hawesville in this state, to be raised by a man named Luckett, or Lucky, under an assumed name, and since that time nothing has been known of his fate, unless to the relatives of Mr. Slaughter, several of whom are still living.

TELEGRAMS.

Monroe, La., April 27.—The water rises and people continue coming in from the rear as the water approaches. The sidewalks and streets are the only pastures for stock. The loss of cattle and hogs by the overflow, is very great. The sun shone a day, and there is a prospect of better weather.

Savannah, April 27.—The Chattoochoo is overflowed its entire length there is considerable damage.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., April 27.—Trains were delayed by storms—now four feet deep in the ruts.

New Orleans, April 26.—The river is falling, and is now two feet below high water. Five to seven day's mails are due from Northern, Eastern and Western cities.

New Orleans, April 26.—Thirty thousand dollars in bank to the credit of the relief fund, but the calamity will require aid from every quarter.

Monroe, La., April 26.—The river rose a quarter of an inch last night, and backwater an inch and a half. Washington street is flooded to within three blocks of the river. The river is at a stand to day, and the weather is fair and warm. There is no intelligence from above or below. The railroad company have surrendered the mail contract between here and Vicksburg, and the telegraph is now the only source of correspondence.

Louisville, April 27.—The steamer Export left here yesterday afternoon with five tons of Government rations for the Louisiana sufferers.

THE OLD TIME.

There is no song like an old song; That we have not heard for years; Each simple note appears to throb With shapes that swim in tears. It may have been a cheery strain, But 'twas so lone & old;

That glee, grown old, has turned to pain. And mirth has turned to woe.

There is no friend like an old friend, Whose life-path marks our own; Whose dawn and noon, whose eve & end, Have known what we have known; It may be when we read his tales.

We note a trace of care; This well that friends in life's last grace Share.

There is no love like an old love, A lost, may be, or dead,

Whose place, since she has gone above, No other fills instead.

It is not we'll ne'er love new,

For life were drear if so,

But that first love had roots that grew Where others cannot grow.

There are no days like the old days, When we not they were young;

When all life's rays were golden rays An wrong had never stung.

Dear heart! if now our steps could pass Through paths of childhood's morn, And the dew of youth lie on the grass Which thine old self wore.

It is not we'll ne'er love new,

For life were drear if so,

But that first love had roots that grew Where others cannot grow.

Old song, old friend, old love, old days;

Old things, yet never old;

A scene that's dark till sunshine plays And changes it to gold;

Through paths of childhood's morn, And the dew of youth lie on the grass Which thine old self wore.

Old song, old friend, old love, old days;

Old things, yet never old;

A scene that's dark till sunshine plays And changes it to gold;

Through paths of childhood's morn, And the dew of youth lie on the grass Which thine old self wore.

LOSSES.

A CALIFORNIA Pocket-Book, with my name written inside, containing a number of promissory notes and receipts, and between thirty and forty dollars in money. A liberal reward will be paid for its delivery to me, with the contents.

May 14th, 1874.

D. P. FORNEY.

While other localities are boasting of their lovely maidens of seventy, we have in our country a spinner of seventy-three years of age, who lives near nine miles from Jacksonville and walks to town carrying with her jeans and other productions of her own hands, for sale. The name of this blithesome lass is Miss Mary Thomas, more commonly known as Aunt Polly Thomas. She says she can do more work and endure more hardships than nine tenths of the young lasses of nineteen. She remembers some of the incidents of the war of 1812 and has a perfect recollection of many subsequent events of national importance.

[Signed.] JOSEPH BROOKS,
Governor of Arkansas.

LATER.

It is your duty to respond to his application for Federal help. If you can not, it is your duty to assist me to suppress the present domestic violence. To disband my troops at this time under no other assurance than is contained in your telegram of to-day, would result not only in the assassination of the Judges of the Supreme Court, but of many of my friends, and especially the colored men, who have been guilty of no crime save fidelity to law and order!

I shall hold my troops together for the purpose of protecting the citizens of that State who believe the expression of the people at the ballot box should be enforced, and for the protection of those who stand by the Constitution, the laws and the adjudication of the court of the country. Federal bayonets can put Baxter's Legislature in the State House, but I am ignorant of the clause of the Constitution under which the President has this power. Nothing else will, and when there I doubt if you can compel them to determine who is Governor.

It is thus a agency, doubt and uncertainty was over. The interests of humanity demand that it shall be settled, and if you have the power under the Constitution and laws of the United States to settle the question of who is Governor of Arkansas? Adverse to the decision of the courts of the State settle it at once. I shall not resist what you may order United States troops to do, but shall, with all the power at my command, repel any exhibition and furnishes abundant food for reflection. Can the evil be mitigated? Look of vitality is the primary cause of most of the physical and mental suffering to which we are subjected, and therefore a vitalizing medicinal agent is the remedy required. Is there such a medicine? There is. Hustler's Stomach Bitters will rouse and energize the mind and body when the life power of the system is in a comparatively dormant state. The languid, feeble, desponding invalid is not aware of the latent energies that underlie his debility. He thinks there is no element of vigor left in his frame, when the fact is that his physical capabilities are merely asleep and only require awakening. Let him stimulate and tone his animal machinery and endow it with new life power, through the agency of this incomparable invigorant, and he will soon feel like a new man, or rather like a man who has received a new lease of life, and the requisite health to enjoy it. Many business men suffer from chronic languor and depression caused by too close application to business. Hard students are often oppressed with melancholy from a like cause. Mechanics and working men are affected in the same way as a result of over-labor. To all who are in this condition, from whatever cause, Hustler's Stomach Bitters will prove a signal blessing. It is a perfect panacea for physical debility and mental gloom. It strengthens the body, clears the mind and calms the nervous system, while as a remedy for indigestion, biliousness, constipation, rheumatism, acute intercurrent and remittent fevers, it takes precedence of all other medicines.

Little Rock, May 12.—Brooks still occupies the State House and surroundings. Whether he intends to vacate or not under the President's instructions is not known. Both Houses met this morning at Ditter's building. There were eleven Senators and forty Representatives present, lacking three of a quorum—one in the Senate and two in the House. It is generally conceded that there will be a quorum in both Houses to-morrow. Hard students are often oppressed with melancholy from a like cause. Mechanics and working men are affected in the same way as a result of over-labor. To all who are in this condition, from whatever cause, Hustler's Stomach Bitters will prove a signal blessing. It is a perfect panacea for physical debility and mental gloom. It strengthens the body, clears the mind and calms the nervous system, while as a remedy for indigestion, biliousness, constipation, rheumatism, acute intercurrent and remittent fevers, it takes precedence of all other medicines.

The extent of the Mississippi flood appears more and more disastrous as the details are received. The White river, the lower Arkansas, the Yazoo as well as the Mississippi, have flooded an immense stretch of country. In its length, depth and magnitude, the flood surpasses anything of the kind since the terrible overflow of 1837. It is estimated that between 75,000 and 100,000 people are already suffering from its effect. The single plantations have been laid waste for the next two years, and great injury has been inflicted upon the cotton crop.—Alabama Journal.

COMMUNICATED.

JACKSONVILLE, ALA.

MAY 21, 1874.

As you honorable gentry will be absent for the ensuing week, I will try to keep up the West fourth of our stirring little Town. Business seems to be business here; and I am glad to see so much interest taken in public affairs. I always knew that there was a great desire or at least room for improvements. Strolling in the street yesterday, I was somewhat surprised to see our fellow townsmen Charles Crawford up to his elbows in "MORTAR" moulding Brick by the Million. Charles is a man of great energy, as his chips will show his talent for Brick work, something that our people have been in need of for many years, and the way to know these many years, and the way to know these just undertake to walk up some of our main streets after a shower. Business is very brisk this week our merchants are improving their fronts by erecting huge shades to wile away the hours through the summer. I will dare say these people live a merrier life and wear more of that herb called hearts ease in their bosoms, than they are clad in silk and velvet. "The world, though it may not last the least delight, thy morning pleasure makes an end to pleasure at night." Poor are the wants that sympath with heaven, friend, earth thou hast, false earth, thy best!

faith walks with us, and hold us back. Her eyes his angels' eyes. She walks with us, across the land, wearing a rose upon her breast. Our people have a new invention for destroying flies. Take one bottle of Bourbon after the contents having been destroyed, "stirring" it with a stick, then pour it into a glass, and it will guarantee that wings and legs will be scarce in that district.

A Most Powerful Document.

We this morning surrendered the best of our available space to the minority report of the U. S. Senate Committee of Privileges and Elections on the Sykes-Spencer contest. We hope that every man in Alabama, will read this wholly unanswerable document. If other business presses at the time it is received, we hope that it will be laid aside to be read at a more favorable time. This is plain, pointed, irresistible statement of the case covers every point and omits nothing. It is the best document which can be put in the hands of the people of Alabama, as a Democratic campaign paper, because it will be read by all who are not blinded by their party's chips.

A preliminary examination was held, but was adjourned till to-morrow in order to get further evidence. We believe the files of both papers will be used in evidence.

MONTGOMERY Advertiser.

"Times are hard, money is scarce, business is dull, retrenchment is a duty—please stop my—whisky "O, no; times are not hard enough for that. But there is something else that costs me a large amount of money every year, which I wish to save. Please stop my—tobacco, cigars and snuff?" "No, no, not these but I must retrench some where; please stop my—ribbons, jewels, ornaments and trinkets etc?"

"Not at all; pride must be fostered, if times are ever so hard; but I believe I can see a way to effect quite a saving in another direction; please stop my—tea, coffee, and needless unhealthful luxuries?" "No, do not those, I must think of something else. Ah! I have it now, my sugar costs $2.00 a year; I must save that. Please stop my paper! That will carry me through the panic easily. I believe in retrenchment and economy, especially in brains."

Baxter talks of death of traitors. He advises Brooks to leave the State.

Baxter sent a telegram to Washington to-day, that Col. Terry would testify that Judge Bowen Dorse's opponent for the United States Senate, was paid $36,000 by the latter to withdraw from the contest, and that he Baxter was told by Dorsey that he deposited $200,000 in the bank for the purpose of bribing the legislature.

The accounts from the country are very alarming—house burning, murder, etc. There were two men murdered the other day by a mob, when they were quietly returning to their homes.

PLAIN LANGUAGE FROM X. SHARP
AFTER BRET HARTE.
(SHELBY SPRINGS, 1874.)

Which I wish to remark
And my language is plain,
That for ways in the dark
And for trials on the train;
The B. O. G. S. is peculiar,
Which the same I would rise to explain.

Q. Flat was his name;
And I shall not deny,
In regard to that same,
What that name might imply;
But the smile it was pensive and childlike,
Which I often remark to Henri.

It was the first day of May
And quite soft were the skies,
Which I feared not to say;
That Q. Flat was likewise.
Yet he played it that day upon Hannah,
And some, a way I despise.

As we sat in the car,
The irreverent "cuss,"
Did my feelings much jar;
By stealing a "buss,"
As the train passed over a bridge;
And the same came near raising a fuss.

Then we had a small feed,
And Q. Flat took a hand;
It was a pic-nic. The same
He did not understand;
Yet he smiled as he sat by the basket,
With a smile that was childlike and bland.

Which his inside he stocked;
In which I gripe;
And my feelings were shocked;
At the state of Q's sleeve,
Which was stuffed full of gobbers and sassing!

And the same with intent to deceive.
And the grub that was eaten.
By that soft B. O. G.
And the way we were beaten,
Was quite frightful to see.
Till at last he bolted a sassing!

Which the same Hannah had picked out for me.

Then I looked at Henri;
And he gazed upon me,
And I rose with a sigh,
And said "Can this be?"
We are ruined by secret societies,
And I went for that soft B. O. G.

In the scene which ensued,
We all took a hand;
And the grass it was strewed;
Like the leaves on the strand,
With the "grub" Q Flat had been hiding
In the feed "he did not understand."

In his sleeves which were long,
He'd a whole loaf of bread
Which was coming it strong!
Yet it's true as I've said;
And I've found in his hat which was

"holy."
A sassing as big as your head.
But affairs took a change
When we returned to the train;
And it's now very strange
That Q's "phiz" expressed pain,
As he fondly caressed his left side;
Which there's no need to rise to explain.

Which is why I remark!
And my reason is plain;
That for tricks in the dark;
And for ways that are vain!
The B. O. G. S. is peculiar
Which the same I am free to maintain.

Laws Relating to Newspaper Subscriptions and Arrearages.

The following is the law as it stands relating to newspapers and subscribers:

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary, are considered wishing to continue their subscription.

2. If the subscribers order the discontinuance of their periodicals, the publishers may continue to send them until all arrearages are paid.

3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their periodicals from the office to which they are sent they are held responsible until they have settled their bills and ordered them discontinued.

4. If subscribers move to other places without informing the publishers, and the papers are sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.

5. The Courts have decided that "refusing to take periodicals from the office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud."

6. Any person who receives a newspaper and makes use of it, whether he orders it or not, is held in law to be a subscriber.

7. If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice to the publisher, at the end of their time, if they do not wish to continue taking it; otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it on, and the subscribers will be responsible until an express notice, with payment of all arrearages, is sent to the publisher.

Fact About Advertising.

From the manifesto of a New York advertising agent we subjoin the following pertinent extract for the edification of our merchants:

Newspaper advertising is now recognized, by business men having faith in their own wares, as the most effective means for securing for their goods a wide recognition of their merits.

Newspaper advertising impels inquiry, and when the article offered is of good quality, and at a fair price, the natural result is increased sales.

Newspaper advertising is a permanent addition to the reputation of the goods advertised, because it is a per cent influence always at work in their interest.

Newspaper advertising is the most energetic and vigilant of salesmen, addressing thousands each day, always in the advertiser's interest, and ceaselessly at work securing customers from all classes.

Newspaper advertising promotes trade, for even in the dullest times advertisers secure by far the largest share of what is being done.

These facts are as applicable to one locality as another.

A Fifteen Hours' Walk for Life.
On Sunday afternoon, a young man named George Falk, swallowed, as he stated, three ounces of laudanum and five grains of morphine in order to end his life, as we reported yesterday. There was but one way of saving him, and that was to keep him in motion. After relieving him as far as possible, his physician, Dr. M. J. Gately, ordered that he be walked until he was out of danger.—At half past 2 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, he was put upon his tramp for life, and was forced to walk in the open air as rapidly as he could. His father kept by him for a long time, and a friend or a policeman assisted. After some hours, the father gave out, and finally, officers and friends grew tired. At last officers had to be taken from their beats and made to do duty in saving the life of the would-be suicide. When the walk commenced, it was with great difficulty that he could be kept going, and so great was his stupor that at times he would almost fall like a stick. Frequently it was necessary to catch him and move him on. He reeled at times like a drunken man, and then again he would revive considerably. The dreary, monotonous walk was kept up without intermission until half past 6 o'clock, yesterday morning, when the physician consented that he should be allowed to take rest. The life of the young man was saved, but the struggle for freedom from the effects of the drugs, was a severe one. To have stopped three minutes would have been fatal.

Weeping Over the Grave.

On the 2d of May a delegation composed of Representatives Sener of Virginia, Maynard of Tennessee, Ward of Illinois, Storrs of Pennsylvania, Captain Marshall of the Engineer Corps, and others, visited Fredericksburg, Va., mainly for the purpose of examining the monument erected to the memory of the mother of Washington. The House of Representatives some time ago passed a resolution directing this examination, with a view possibly of completing it. Among the names of the carpet-baggers and scalawags who met the delegation at Fredericksburg we see the John G. Stokes, late of Montgomery, and once the editor of the Radical journal of that city. We would like to know what business Stokes has weeping over the grave of Washington's mother. It is worse than Mark Twain weeping over the tomb of Adam. As a business enterprise we would suggest a chrome, to be sold among the negroes, representing John Stokes at the grave of Mary Washington.—Mobility Register.

TELEGRAMS.

Little Rock, May 14.—Both Houses met this morning and adopted the following joint resolution:

"Whereas, the Legislature of the State of Arkansas has convened a quorum in each House present; whereas, the Capital of our State is occupied by armed and contending forces; and whereas, the State House is now in possession of armed troops; therefore: be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Arkansas that the President of the United States be, and is hereby requested to put this Legislature in possession of the Legislature Hall and that the public property in the State House Square be placed under the supervision and control of this body, the legal custodians thereof, whilst in session, and that he make such order for the disposition of said armed contending forces as will more perfectly protect the State against domestic violence and insure the body protection, and that a duly certified copy of this resolution be at once transmitted to the President of the United States. In the House a large number of notices of the introduction of bills were given, among others, for calling a Constitution. The situation as to the two armed forces remaining unchanged.—The Senate appointed a Committee to act in conjunction with the House Committee, appointed yesterday, to notify Governor Baxter that the General Assembly was ready to receive any message he might desire to deliver. The Governor's message, it is thought, will be read to both Houses this evening.
